Introduction

The first CEN BII Workshop was established in May 2007 with the objective of harmonising electronic procurement in Europe. The CEN BII initiative, which now comprises a further two CEN Workshops, is a standardisation activity within CEN (European Committee for Standardisation). It provides a framework for interoperability in pan-European electronic transactions expressed as a set of technical specifications.

During the second phase of the initiative (CEN WS/BII 2) a set of technical specifications – “CEN BII Profiles” – were documented and published as five CEN Workshop Agreements (CWAs), which are currently used across Europe. The profiles are designed to facilitate effective public e-procurement based on a modular approach for implementation, with a focus on global interoperability.

The CEN BII profiles can be seen as “agreements” on message contents and business processes. The profile descriptions focus on core information elements that typically cater to the majority of user requirements applicable across Europe and lower the need for detailed bilateral agreements between the trading partners.

In its third phase (CEN WS/BII 3), which began in March 2013 with the approval of the business plan, the Workshop has focused on ensuring that all relevant aspects of e-procurement are covered, including additional business requirements coming from the new Public Procurement Directives² and alignment to other standardization efforts in the area of electronic invoicing, as well as ensuring wider recognition and adoption of its deliverables.

More information about the CEN BII initiative can be found on www.cenbii.eu.

² Directive 2014/24/EU on public procurement – replaces Directive 2004/18/EC (“classic Directive”), Directive 2014/25/EU on procurement by entities operating in the water, energy, transport and postal services sectors – replaces Directive 2004/17/EC (“utilities Directive”), and Directive 2014/23/EU on the award of concession contracts (new).

1 Scope

This guideline explains how to use the UBL syntax to support the CEN BII information transaction requirements. It provides the syntax mappings from the UBL syntax to the CEN BII information requirement model.

2 Goal

The goal of this guideline is to describe the implementation of the CEN BII transaction Trdm065 Notice Publication Response using the UBL 2.1 Application Response document.

Chapter 3 identifies the code lists used in the transaction.

Chapter 4 contains two tables where these mappings can be found:

1. A table depicting the structure of the elements of the UBL document and their relationship with the CEN BII information requirement model.
2. A detailed table with additional information on the semantics of the BII information requirements and references to the code lists.

Chapter 5 contains a table with the mappings from BII transaction information requirements to the UBL 2.1 syntax.
